The Iron Man Trotzky

—By Arthur Brisbane—

MR. FIRESTONE, who makes [illegible], says England controls 85 per cent of the world's [illegible] rubber, while the United States buys 70 per cent of it. He says British legislation has cut [illegible] production to keep prices up, [illegible] he wants this government to [illegible] rubber production in South America and the Philippines. A good American idea. It would be hard on the [illegible] if able British business men applied to rubber the [illegible] prices they now [illegible] diamonds. With diamonds it [illegible] difference.

[illegible], a German scientist and author, professor in [illegible] University, arrived here with [illegible] marks, a month's salary from the German government. For his [illegible] he got $7 and lived on that [illegible] America fourteen days, eating [illegible] and chocolate. Yesterday he [illegible] away as a seaman before the mast. He came here to finish [illegible] an important book on the development of light ships.

The professor changed his marks [illegible] dollars just in time. Had he [illegible] until yesterday, he would [illegible] had to live the two weeks on [illegible] $2.

Before the war you could buy [illegible] marks for a dollar. Yesterday [illegible] could buy about 25,000 for a [illegible]. War doesn't pay. Even [illegible], victorious, is slowly realizing it.

Francs, worth nearly 20 cents before the war, were a little over [illegible] yesterday. Even the powerful [illegible] sterling fell down a little.

The failure of the Washington [illegible] conference helped that.

[illegible] conference in Washington is [illegible] for the time being. The gen[illegible] home, and "both [illegible] full," it is said. England [illegible] pay in fifty years, [illegible] at 3 per cent.

A [illegible] English preacher [illegible] us with her presence, [illegible] says wealth is "not wicked [illegible] dangerous."

[illegible] information, it may be [illegible] that over here poverty is [illegible].

[illegible] the dangers of wealth are, [illegible] young lady knows. [illegible] of poverty include sick[illegible] lack of opportunity of [illegible] good food, of [illegible].

[illegible] wealth's dangers [illegible] more than a hundred mil[illegible] Americans prepared to risk [illegible].

Of all that originally managed [illegible] revolution, the one that [illegible] made of cast iron, able to [illegible] strain, is Trotzky, the [illegible].

[illegible] ill, unable to take part [illegible] government. Lunacharsky, [illegible] education, struggles [illegible] trouble. Others are in [illegible] their doctors. But [illegible] not bothered [illegible] hours of work a day.

Seizure Of Miners Begun; French Take Money And Autos

BULLETIN
(By the Associated Press)

DUESSELDORF— All the banking institutions in Duesseldorf, both private and state, closed this afternoon, claiming to be unable to carry on business owing to the seizure by the French of the local branch of the Reichsbank thus shutting off the supply of marks. The economic life of the city is at a standstill.

(By the Associated Press)

ESSEN — The president of the district railway administration of Essen refused today to dispatch coal trains, rejecting the French demands for shipments. Seizure of state mines in the Ruhr by the forces of occupation was begun today. The Bergmandsglueck and Westerhold pits near Buer, were occupied by the military and Manager Ahrens was arrested for refusing to deliver coal. Fist Fight in French Chamber PARIS —Blackened eyes and swollen lips were in evidence in the Chamber of Deputies today as reminders of last night's stormy session when the chamber voted to suspend parliamentary immunity of Marcel Cachin, the Communist member. The trouble started when a special commission that had investigated Cachin's alleged movements in the Ruhr, recommended suspension of his immunity so that he migh be prosecuted. Prince Joachim Murat, who recently won the plaudits of his fellow deputies of the right in a fistic encounter with M. Evrard, the Radical, hastened to lead his faction and then the fists began to fly. A corps of ushers had parted the combatants.

Burn U.W. Petition Denouncing LaFollette, Is Demand Of Resolution By Senator Huber

Document Is Continued Insult To Senator, Says Resolution

Public burning of the "round robin" signed during the war by several hundred University of Wisconsin professors, denouncing the war record of U S. Senator Robert M. La Follette, is ordered by a resolution introduced into the senate of the Wisconsin legislature today by Henry A. Huber, administration leader in the upper house.

This resolution, indorsed by Gov. J. J. Blaine and backed by the La Follette forces in control of the legislature, directs the librarian of the state historical society to turn over the document containing the signatures of the university professors to the superintendent of public property, who is ordered to destroy it.

Following is the resolution:

"Whereas, on Feb. 2, 1918, there was filed in the historical library of the state of Wisconsin a certain document signed generally by the members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, which document contains libelous aspersions on the record and character of Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin's most distinguished citizen, and

"Whereas, many members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin were induced to sign such document under duress and intimidation and now desire the wrong done Senator La Follette effaced from the public records, and

"Whereas, Senator Robert M. La Follette is a most distinguished alumnus of the University of Wisconsin and such documents so on file are a continuing insult to the senator and a disgrace to their authors, and

"Whereas, at the recent election the people of Wisconsin re-elected Senator La Follette by a majority of 278,552 votes, the largest majority ever given to a public official in this state, strongly endorsing the public record and repudiating his detractors,

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, by the senate, the assembly concurring, that the librarian of the state historical society be and he is hereby directed to turn such documents over to the superintendent of public property, and that the superintendent of public property cause the same to be publicly destroyed by burning."

Here is Resolution and Signers; Plan to Burn Famous University Petition

We, the undersigned resident members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin of the rank of instructor and above, protest against those utterances and actions of Senator Robert M. La Follette which have given aid and comfort to Germany and her allies in the present war; we deplore his failure loyally to support the government in the prosecution of the war. In these respects he has misrepresented us, his constituents.

More than 125 of our colleagues, who might have supported this protest, are now absent from the city in the service of the United States.

Copies of this protest are to be sent to Senator La Follette and to the press.

Witness Tells Of Party Which Killed Two Bastrop Men

BULLETIN
(By the Associated Press)

BASTROP, La. — Judge F. L. Odom, presiding at the open hearing into masked band activities in Morehouse Parish announced this afternoon it had been officially reported to him that another masked hold-up took place late last night on the Bastrop-Mer Rouge road. Judge Odom stated that the hold-up, similar to the one which was alleged to have occurred August 24, at which Watt Daniel and T. F. Richard were kidnapped, took place a few miles out of Mer Rouge and that the man stopped was a Mr. Rogers.

(By the Associated Press)

BASTROP, La.—R. A. Whetstone, regarded as the stat's most important witness in the investigation of Morehouse's masked band activities, took the stand at the opening of the afternoon hearing here.

Whetstone who said his home was at Oak Ridge, said he spent the day in Bastrop on Aug. 24. On leaving Bastrop he walked about two miles in hopes of getting some automobile to pick him up. While he was walking he saw parked in the woods an automobile truck.

"When I approached the crowd I saw they were black hooded men. I got on them before they noticed me. There were about 10 or 15 men. I thought they were 'high Jackets.' I had a little money and I didn't want them to get it. I got about 50 feet from them and I was called by name, 'Barry Whetstone.' They made me come to them and they gave me a bucket, telling me to get them some water and they would give me 50 cents."

Whetstone said he recognized T. J. Burnett as a member of the band. Burnett, he said, had his mask lifted from his face.

It has been impossible to fix the responsibility for the methods and practices alleged to have been committed by certain secret societies because of the lack of information concerning the membership and officers of such organizations, according to the bill.

Freed Of Murder Charge

Verdict of Jury of Farmers Victory For Mine Unions

(By the Associated Press)

MARION, Ill.— All five defendants in the Herrin riots trial were found not guilty by a jury of 12 Williamson county farmers at 1:55 p. m. today.

The verdicts were read in the following order: Leva Mann, Joe Carnaghi, Peter Hiller, Burt Grace and Otis Clark. All of them are union miners except Peter Hiller who is a taxi driver. The courtroom was crowded when the verdict was read but there was no sign of a demonstration of any kind.

The crowd pouring from the courtroom after the verdicts were read quickly filled the square, and there was no sign of demonstrations. Many persons gathered about the jurors to congratulate them while the defendants hurried to their homes.

The five men were held following the Herrin mine riots in which a score were killed. The mine unions contended that armed guards employed by the mine owners caused the outbreak.

James Weaver, one of the jurors, said that between 15 and 20 ballots were taken before the verdict was reached. The jury deliberated for 27 hours.

"The defendant's attarneys, of course fel happy at the result of this trial, happy because this may and ought to be the birth of a new era in industrial disputes in America," A. W. Kerr, chief counsel for the defense said. "The defense was directed against the vicious and murderous use of a private army of gunmen. If this trial has taught the lesson well that hereafter the weapons of the employers' private army shall not be directed against human breasts then the trial with all its sacrifices has not been in vain.

"We speak at the moment with no rancor in our hearts, but with a feeling that some good has been accomplished to the American working man and woman if a blow has been successfully dealt at those employers who would bring to the aid of their cause gunmen who recklessly and maliciously seek to foment trouble and disturbance and to that end will go to the length of murder.

"It was the only and righteous verdict which could have been rendered against an army of invaders."

State's Attorney Duty refused to make any statement.

If the local police are so interested from that angle, why do [illegible] one of your big grocers [illegible] to occupy half of the [illegible] on one of the busiest corners in the city. It is also significant that when Abrams stands in front of a restaurant selling his hot dogs he is immediately chased by a policeman.

"I am only interested in giving this man a square deal. He has to make a living. He was crippled while working in a packing plant. The manner in which he was treated by a policeman some months ago was a disgrace. I propose to get a square deal for Abrams if I can."

Treasury Agent Ballard today issued the following statement:

"This is to certify that W. B. Abrams has complained to me that he has been interferred with by certain members of the police department while he was engaged in the sale of his merchandise.

"I wish it distinctly understood that this man has complied with the law, has paid a license fee of $75 and has a state license, and under this license is protected in the business of a hawker or peddler for the term of one year from Jan. 17, 1923 to Jan 17, 1924.

"If any other complaints come to this department that this man is interferred with, I shall take steps to make a personal investigation of the reason for such action."

Gettelman Is Laid Off By Zimmerman

Secretary Of State Gives No Reason For Action On Senators' Brother

Sam Gettelman, brother of Senator Ben Gettleman, was laid off as an employe of the secretary of state's office today by Fred Zimmerman, secretary of state. Gettelman has been employed in the automobile division of the department for the past year.

Gettelman was formerly a deputy state treasury agent. When C. B. Ballard was named state treasury agent he demanded the records of former employes of the office and also asked an investigation of accounts. Receipt books and license books were demanded. Gettelman did not produce his records and Ballard refused to retain him in the office.

Close friends of Gov. Blaine then interceded in Gettelman's behalf and he obtained a job in the secretary of state's office under Secretary of State Hall.

Secretary Zimmerman made no comment as to why he laid off Gettelman.

Attorney Gen. Ekern Goes To Washington

Attorney General H. Ekern left yesterday for Washington. He will be gone until next Tuesday.

Georgia Baker To Taycheedah 1 To 5 Years

Madison Girl Is Found Guilty Of Misconduct In Dance Hall

Miss Georgia Baker, Madison, was sentenced to the reformatory at Taycheedah today by Judge O. A. Stolen, for from one to five years, for violation of her parole. Her case came before the court when she was hailed into the judge's chambers yesterday with William Cox, Jr., charged with disorderly conduct in a local dance hall.

The case of Cox is under advisement. The young couple are charged by Madison police woman with misconduct on the floor during a spotlight dance. The girl is 19 years old.

Bills Aim At Teacher Fund Law; Highway Legislation Is Sought. New 8 Hour Day Bill

The teachers' insurance and retirement fund as enacted by the 1921 legislature, will be the subject of considerable legislation during the present session, judging by expressions from senators and assemblymen.

Assemblyman Robert Caldwell, Lodi, has a bill calling for complete repeal of the statute. He would have the state pay all claims of teachers against the fund, and clear the pension system completely off the statute books. A proposal of Senator W. A. Titus, Fond du Lac, would eliminate the section of the statute allowing death benefits to estates of teachers. The bill of Assemblyman Caldwell is offered to completely do away with the pension system. He has consistently opposed all pensions. Senator Titus intends to prevent in the future any such grants of funds as have recently been allowed by the annuity board of the fund to the estates of seven deceased state teachers. Their first benefits totalled over $100,000 when payments by the teachers had been less than $1000.

Highway Program To Be Sought

The problem of financing Wisconsin's highway building program, outstanding in the present session of the legislature will be approached cautiously by the joint highway committee of the two houses, Assemblyman George Nelson, Polk county, chairman of the lower house committee, said today.

Assemblyman Nelson believes that the present financial stringency in rural communities of Wisconsin precludes the adoption of any highway program that calls for a large expenditure. He does not think that the highway program, fostered by the legislative committee of the county boards, and backed by a majority of the boards, can be passed.

"The road situation has simmered down to a question of roads or homes," Assemblyman Nelson said. "Farmers can no longer meet heavy road taxes and keep up their farms in many sections of the state. Taxes are unbearable in many cases, now, and should not be increased. I am in favor of good roads, and of a sensible highway program, but do not believe in any extensive program."

It is the opinion of the highway committee chairman that a gasoline tax is an equitable means of raising money for highway purposes. He does not favor a weight tax, or a valuation tax, but believes that a license fee should be kept in force to raise a good share of the highway funds.

8 Hour Day, Editorial, Amendment Bills

The establishment of a maximum working day of eight hours and the limit of over time work compatible with the "well being and health of the individual" was asked in a resolution introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature today by Assemblyman Herman G. Tucker, Milwaukee. All work over eight hours per day will be paid for at a time and a half rate but such over time is limited so as not to interfere with the health of the worker.

Paid editorials and news items in newspapers and other periodicals, intended to influence the public, will have to carry the words "paid advertisement" and a statement above the story giving the name and address of the person authorizing the payment and of the author, if a bill introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature today by Assemblyman Lawrence Timmerman, Milwaukee, is passed.

The bill would provide a maximum penalty for violation of $200 or 90 day jail sentence or both.

A bill memorializing congress to amend the federal constitution requiring that amendments to the constitution be approved by the people before becoming effective was introduced in the assembly today by Lawrence Timmerman of Milwaukee.

Ask Report On Bonded Indebtedness

The senate today concurred in an assembly resolution ordering the Wisconsin railroad commission to turn over to the assembly taxation committee information concerning the bonded indebtedness of public utilities in the state. The resolution declares that the people of the state are annually paying large sums to meet interest on this indebtedness which the utility companies are making no effort to retire.

Sen. A. H. Werden, Ashland, introduced a resolution today calling for a constitutional amendment to permit the state to borrow a sum not exceeding one-fifth of one mill on the taxable property of the state, to aid land settlement, and improvement of cut-over lands. A similar resolution by Senator Werden was adopted by the 1921 legislature, and if acted on favorably at this session goes to a vote of the people at the general election in 1924.

A constitutional convention to draft a new basic law for Wisconsin is asked in a resolution introduced in the senate today by Sen. J. J. Hirsch, Milwaukee. This resolution calls for a referendum on the question of a constitutional convention, to be voted on by the people at the general election in 1924.

Compulsory Education For Adults

Compulsory education for adults who can not speak, read and write English is sought by Assemblyman A. P. Miller, Outagamie, in a bill introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature today. The bill would compel sch a person to attend school for 8 hours a week until such a time as he could understand and speak the language. Such attendance would be on his employers time.

Ask Name Change For State Home

Senator Max Heck, Racine, has a bill asking that the name of the Southern Wisconsin Home for the Feeble Minded at Union Grove, be changed to the Southern Wisconsin Home Training institution. This is to remove objections to the use of the word "feeble-minded," in the name.

Wisconsin counties will be able to choose their own county agricultural representatives and public health nurse if a bill introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature today by Assemblyman A. B. Blomberg, Price county, is adopted. No new agricultural representatives can be established unless the question is first submitted to a vote of the people in each county and approved by a majority.

The people of a county, may upon a majority vote case, do away with the services of any public health registered nurse or public health instructor for that county.

A bill limiting the hours of work of employes of bakeries engaged in the manufacture of food products was introduced in the assembly today by E. H. Killian, Watertown. Under the bill employes would not be allowed to work later than 8 p. m. nor earlier than 4 a. m.

Bureau to Ban Rent Gouging Is Demanded

Burke Bill Would Give Power To Railroad Commission

Creation of an emergency rent bureau under the Wisconsin railroad commission to investigate and determine what are fair rents to be charged by landlords in the cities of the state, is called for in a bill introduced into the senate today by Timothy Burke, Green Bay.

Authority is given the commission to fix rents wherever it is found that they are excessive. An appropriation of $10,000 annually is provided, until 1925, unless the law is repealed before that time, should it be put into effect by the present legislature.

At present, the bill cites, landlords are charging rents that are "unjust, unreasonable and oppressive, endangering public welfare, health and morals."

Arkansas Opens Probe Into Strikers' Lynching

HARRISON, Ark.—After several days of disturbances following a rounding up of alleged strikers, charged with burning bridges along the line of the Missouri & North Arkansas road, by the self styled "Committee of 1,000," Harrison today was awaiting the opening of the investigation by the joint executive committee next Monday at Little Rock. Examination of witnesses will be conducted at the capital. With the arrest yesterday of two suspects, indicted on charges with arson and the announcement that a total of 30 indictments had been returned by the grand jury, no further developments had been reported. Further arrests are expected.

Former Madison Woman Dies in Virginia

Mrs. Frank Allis, for years a resident of Madison and one time prominently identified with Madison's social life, died at Petersburg, Va., on Wednesday, according to word received here today.

Her husband, formerly owner of the Allis Farm, east on Lake Monona, died here several years ago. Mrs. Allis, whose husband's parents were prominent in the pioneer growth of West Allis, near Milwaukee, had gone to Virginia some time ago in the interest of her health. Her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Marshall, were residing with her. Mrs. Allis was formerly Miss Lillian Page of Milwaukee.

Chief Engineer Gains Big Policy

Declares Tanlac Built Him Up 24 Pounds and He Passed Examination In Fine Shape

"Before taking Tanlac I was in no condition to apply for life insurance, but I have built myself up twenty-four pounds with this medicine and have just recently taken out a ten thousand dollar policy, and the physician who examined me says there's no mistaking my fine physical status now. The report showed my health a hundred percent perfect and it made me feel good all over."

The above statement was made, a few days ago, by John Douglas, 1245 State St., Milwaukee, Wis., chief engineer at the Hotel Wisconsin, one of the newest, largest and most up-to-date hostelries in Milwaukee.

"For a year or more," said Mr. Douglas. "I had suffered from loss of appetite, indigestion and nervousness. I would toss and roll for hours at night and get up mornings only half rested. I was troubled with headaches, felt tired and sluggish, and had lost considerable of my old time energy and strength. But since taking Tanlac I simply feel good to my finger tips. I eat what I want, sleep fine at night, and don't know what it is to feel tired any more. There's nothing too good I can say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Adv.

60 TONS OF SAND AID STUDENTS IN REACHING 8 O'CLOCKS ON TIME

Approximately 120,000 pounds of sand has been put on the walks this winter to keep the students from breaking their arms, legs or necks, according to information obtained from John Bergen, assistant superintendent of the university grounds.

As a general rule about twice this amount is put on the sidewalks during the course of the winter. The sand is hauled from the university sand pit to various distributing stations on the campus. It is sprinkled on the sidewalks by various members of the labor department.

"The sand now being used is too fine and blows away or is carried off of the walks on the feet of the students," Bergen stated. "I am going to mix it with sand from Janesville next year. The Janesville sand is much courser and will serve the purpose better."

An average of five men are kept working all day long through the winter months in keeping the walks sanded and scraped. On bad days as high as 10 to 12 men are kept busy throughout the day on the sidewalks.

"There are also a great many sidewalks on the campus to keep clean," Mr Bergen said yesterday.

Thrift is wise spending, knowing what, where and when to buy, studying carefully in order to recognize good values at sight. In this way the steady saving of money, which is the object of thrifty practice, can be more easily accomplished. We want to help in this daily practice of thrift. Let the big bargains we are offering at this sale help you in wise spending.

Insurance Is Thrift Need, Says Ekern

Policy Holders Prudent, He Says In Thrift Week Plea

By Herman L. Ekern, Attorney General.

Any one who fails to insure a house, store, or factory against fire is justly rated as lacking in ordinary prudence. Yet many men fail to insure what to most men is a far greater value, namely, their continued earning capacity which may at any time be terminated by death.

Herman L. Ekern.

A $10,000 house, nearly always fully insured, represents a rental value of possibly $800 annually. A man's life, often uninsured, producing an income of $2,400 annually, represents at least a capital of $30,000.

Death of the bread winner without insurance removes this capital and terminates this income as certainly as does the burning of a house uninsured.

Life insurance has still another advantage. As ordinarily carried in a whole life or limited payment life policy, there is a considerable accumulation with interest which, carried into old age, very often is the only saving for the time when the earning powers are lessened or disappear.

The accumulations of the life insurance companies represent a very large proportion of the savings of the American people and these accumulations are available for use as may be needed in old age.

Under the laws, life insurance companies are strictly regulated and supervised and their investments are the most conservative and safest known. The millions annually sunk in unsound or "get-rich-quick" promotion enterprises, if devoted to the prudent purchase of life insurance, would greatly increase our annual savings and greatly lessen the problem of old age dependency.

PLATTEVILLE—Leo M. Kane post, American Legion, will present the comedy, "Eclipse of the Honeymoon," on Jan. 19 and 20. Anna Hocking Smith is in charge of the company.

The Best None Too Good

"After many years of stomach suffering I have at last found a medicine for that trouble. But believe me it was a timely find. I couldn't have lasted a great while longer. My stomach would bloat with gas like a barrel and the colics got to be awful. Medicine didn't help much until I got hold of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which did the trick. I am telling everyone about it." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Repeal Esch Law, Demand Of Eber Bill

Measure Says Act Violates Principles Of Good Business

The repeal of the Esch-Cummins law was asked today in a joint resolution introduced in the assembly by John W. Eber, Milwaukee.

"The Esch-Cummins law violates the principles of good business by guaranteeing to the owners of railroads a minimum net return upon that uncertain and intangible thing described in the bill as "aggregate value of railroad properties of such carriers," the resolution asserted, and added that "this grant of privilege is not based on consideration of service reduced but is an exercise of governmental powers for the private interest of that particular class holding railroad securities."

Gloria Dei Lutheran will have a business meeting this evening at 7:30.

Good Health Secret of Beauty

Beauty lies in the care a woman bestows upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to her sex, which drag her down and leave telltale traces upon her countenance. Sparkling eyes, the elastic step and a clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. Distressed expressions, a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude, headaches, and mental depression are the telltale symptoms of women's ailments. Women so troubled should not lose a day in taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, the most successful remedy known to overcome woman's ills and restore health and beauty.—Adv.

Railroads In Madison Deny Reported Plans

No Programs Announced For Improvements Here Say Officials

Officials of three railroads operating out of Madison today denied rumors of extensive improvements to be made here.

"The question of improvements here comes up from time to time," said F. J. Zoelle, local agent of the Northwestern, "but there has been nothing definite. Anything said about the proposition is merely rumor. Naturally, changes will sometime have to be made, but as to when or where I have heard nothing, either officially or unofficially."

The local office of the Milwaukee road also denied that any steps toward changes were being taken, or that negotiations for lands in Madison or vicinity were being made.

The Illinois Central offise has heard nothing of improvements to be made here.

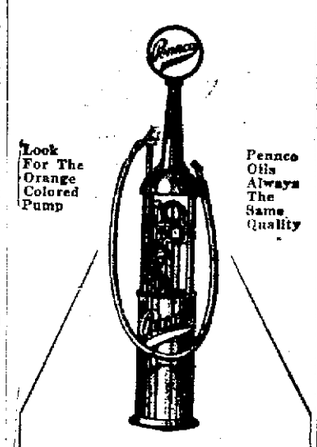

Officials of all three roads stated that changes in the future were inevitable, but that no definite plans of any kind had been made.

Co-ed Poses In Scarce Garb To Get Prom Date

*It seems that the Fates have decreed that the university student who advertised in The Capital Times for a "prom partner" will not go unrewarded.

Re-affirming the claim of this newspaper that "Capital Times' want ads pay," comes a few letters to the department chief today in answer to the young man's query. Only 24 hours of "Capital Times' service" and a dozen girls want to be his prom "queen." One girl sends a snapshot of herself with all the environment of a wood-nymph. And to convince him that she was truthful about her proportions, posed in an open field with no more garb than the ancient Greek dancer.

MONROE—Four patients, ill with diphtheria, are recovering. There is no fear of an epidemic. Those ill are: Mrs. August Feldt and daughter, Stella. Miss Lorenda Dodge and Miss Lena Miller.

NEW FLEET OF SCARLET SPEEDERS LINK FARMYARD WITH CITY DEALER

TO THE FARMER'S DOORSTEP

A new link has been forged in the chain that connects the farm with the city. First the passenger car—now ten million strong—revolutionized the social side of country life. Then the motor truck developed to a capacity which hauls 1,500,000,000 tons of freight one mile a year.

Now comes the Red Baby. It is a high-powered service truck that can speed like a fire engine to a harvest field or to a dairy farm to make machinery repairs, furnish supplies and otherwise aid the farmer. It is estimated that when the service is in full swing it will save American farmers millions of dollars annually by relieving emergencies at those critical periods when delays involve gigantic losses.

Thousands of these service vehicles are chugging through the rural districts from New York to California and from the Canadian Northwest to Texas. Like the Scarlet Riders of the far north, they live on the roads. They make it possible for the farmer to get precisely the same service that the city man gets from the man who delivers milk to his door. With extension of the good roads program the service will eventually be expanded to every one of America's 6,500,000 farmers.

The trucks cannot be purchased by the public. They are owned only by McCormick-Deering dealers, of which there are over 15,000 scattered across the country. This new fleet of "quick serve" motors made by the International Harvester Company, already is completely revolutionizing the old methods of serving the farmer "at the earliest convenience," which once meant from one day to two weeks.

U.S. Rum "Department Store"

Rum "department store" sale on ship, anchored just outside three-mile limit off Atlantic Headland, N. J.

Keen competition between the "skippers" of the floating rum "department stores" off the New Jersey coast brought down the prices of gin, whiskey, champagne and other liquors during a recent sale. The U. S. dry navy, temporarily out of commission, was unable to check the flow of "shoppers" to and from the rum ships, anchored just outside the three-mile limit off Atlantic Headlands. Large signs gave the sale prices on all popular liquors.

Ask Marquette Grads Practice Without Exam

Bill Would Grant Same Privilege As To U. W. Lawyers

Law school graduates at Marquette university would be accorded the same treatment before the bar of the state as graduates of the University of Wisconsin if a bill introduced into the senate by Max Heck, Racine, is passed.

He proposes that Marquette law graduates be admitted to the bar of the state without an examination.

In the past, friends of Marquette University have made moves to require that University of Wisconsin graduates take the bar examination before being eligible for practice. Each time this has been suggested, it has been defeated by the legislature.

I. And R. Is Introduced By Senator Huber

Measure in Accordance With Platform Promise Is In The Senate

The initiative and referendum is proposed in a resolution introduced by Senator Huber, calling for an amendment to the Wisconsin constitution to give the people of the state a direct voice in passing on legislation.

The measure brought before the senate by the Stoughton senator is similar to that introduced by him in the 1920 session. It was defeated in the upper house at that time but comes before the present administration controlled senate with the indorsement of the governor. It is practically assured of passage.

The resolution provides that no law enacted by the legislature, except an emergency, can take effect before 90 days after its passage and publication. If within that time a petition signed by 10 per cent of the voters is filed asking that the law or any portion of it be submitted to the people, such a law shall not take effect within 30 days after its approval by a majority of the qualified votes of the state.

An emergency law shall remain in force, the resolution states notwithstanding such petition but shall stand repealed 30 days after being rejected by a majority of the voters. A two-thirds vote of the legislature is necessary to designate a law an emergency law.

Prize Seekers This Week Are Musical; Most Of Them Pity Poor Dad With Crying Baby

Majority of 347 Entrants Cling To Grim Realities

BY THE CONTEST EDITOR

THERE were scores and scores of musical contributors in this week's dialogue contest. You'd never imagine that the picture of a father holding a bellowing baby would arouse musical notions, but at least fifty of the 347 answers received were reminded of melodies. This answer was a favorite one:

Wife: "Can't you sing to him to keep him quiet?"

Husband: "Yes, I suppose 'Three O'clock in the Morning' is his favorite song!"

A good answer, but one so popular with contestants that reluctantly it had to be ruled out. And a lot of readers sent in variations along this line:

Wife: "Keep your kid quiet while I fetch the milk."

Husband: "MY kid. He's part yours, ain't he? And my half is quiet!"

Then there were twenty contestants who made poor father come back to his wife's complaint with:

"Say, I admit I'm a floorwalker day times, but darned if I want to be a night watchman as well!"

Of course by far the greatest number of contributors were grim realists. They realized perfectly well that an irate dad holding a baby at 3 a. m. wouldn't say anything clever. So they made father reply angrily: "What do you think I'm going to do? Carry him all night?" Or "don't you expect me to get any sleep? I gotta be to work at seven!"

These answers are all convincing. They're just what you'd expect father to say, but the Contest Editor is on the scent of clever replies—and doesn't object to puns if they're not too far-fetched. In the next contest think hard of something funny to say. Perhaps it's not at all what the people in the picture would normally say, but the kind of an answer you'd expect from two folks on the vaudeville stage.

Tomorrow The Capital Times will print an entirely different kind of picture. Poor "husband" and "wife" have been maligned for two weeks. Time to change! Watch for the new picture tomorrow and send in your answers by next Wednesday. Let's go.

Prize Winners

You woke him with your snoring!"
From: J. F. Brahany, 121 N. Webster st., Madison.

Wife: "Why don't you keep the baby quiet? Hop around the room and sing to him—anything to stop his crying until I warm his bottle. You lazy lout!"
Husband: "Do you think I'm a performing ape or a braying donkey? Judging from the red-hot bouquets you are handing me I think you'll gain time by warming that bottle in your mouth!"
From: A. E. Danks, 312 West Main st., Stoughton.

Wife: "Keep him quiet while I warm the milk. If you would provide as a father naturally ought to, there would be a thermos bottle to save all this fussing!"

State Hygiene Tests Show Increase Here

"Although no contagious disease epidemic has prevailed in the state this year, the work of the state laboratory of hygiene has increased constantly," Dr. W. D. Stovall, director of the state laboratory of hygiene, stated yesterday.

For the past biennium ending last July, 64, 768 specimens of material for diagnosis were received at the laboratory, there being an increase of 27,787 specimens from the previous two years. Over 1,200 physicians, representing every county of the state, now use the state laboratory to aid them in diagnosing diseases.

The laboratory co-operates through the state board of health with physicians, health officers, public health nurses, veterinarians and officials of town and school boards in diagnosing and preventing diseases. Chemical, bacteriological and microscopic examinations are made for specimens sent to the laboratory.

The state laboratory of hygiene was established by the Wisconsin legislature in 1903. President Birge is a pioneer in the study of bacteriology and began giving courses in it at the university in 1885-86.

Six co-operative laboratories at Superior, Wausau, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Kenosha, Beloit and the branch laboratory at Rhinelander work in connection with the central laboratory at Madison.

Blaine Frees 31 In Past 2 Years, Report

90 Conditional Pardons, 55 Commutations Granted

Governor Blaine today submitted the complete list of his pardons for the past two years, to the senate in conformity with statutory requirements, showing that 31 absolute pardons have been granted, 90 conditional pardons and 55 commutations of sentence.

During his first administration, the governor gave an absolute pardon to six from the Wisconsin state prison, to nine from the reformatory, eight from the Milwaukee house of correction, seven from county jails, one from the industrial school for girls and two from the industrial school for girls.

Governor Blaine's pardons, taking into consideration the larger inmate population of institutions, were fewer than those granted by the previous administration, it was said at the executive office.

Skinner Awaits Citizens Body Board Action

Withholds Announcement of Candidacy; East Side to Get Member

Timber for elections to the school board next spring has not yet been chosen. Every year a citizens' committee is formed here for the purpose of nominating candidates for election to the school board at the spring election, but so far no such organization has been formed. Prof. E. B. Skinner, president of the school board, has not signified his intention of being a candidate, stating that he is withholding his declaration until a committee has been formed.

If the committee is formed again this year it is thought by many that a candidate will be chosen from the section beyond the Yahara river, which at present has no representation on the board of education, while other districts have as high as three members. The East Side high school is in this territory besides public schools.

In addition to President Skinner, the term of J. B. Ramsay expires this spring. He will not be a candidate, he has stated. The death of E. T. Baillie recently creates a third vacancy which must be filled at the spring election.

All Film Land In Mourning

Chaplin, Mary Pickford And Others See Big Loss To World

(By the Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Filmdom today mourned the passing yesterday of Wallace Reid, motion picture star, whose death ended his long battle for health after abandoning the use of habit-forming drugs.

His death came as he lay in the arms of his wife, known in the screen world as Dorothy Davenport, and just after he had mumbled in semi-delirium "God—I—please."

He had been unconscious for many hours but in his last talk with his wife when his mind was clear, he seemed to be aware, relatives said, that death was almost upon him. At that time he said, "Tell them, mamma, I have won my fight—that I have come back."

MADISONIAN HEARS OF WALLY'S DEATH BY RADIO

"Ladies and Gentlemen:—I am taking the privilege of interrupting this concert to give you a very, very sad piece of news—Wallie Reid died in Hollywood early this evening."

C. O. Livermore, 119 S. Broom st., who was listening in on a radio concert being given at Newark, N. J., at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, was perhaps the first Madisonian to receive word of the death of the famous actor when a concert singer stopped giving his entertainment to his unseen audience to tell radio fans throughout the world that Wallie had died.

Death Is Held Great Loss

Representatives of all phases of motion picture work offered their sympathy to his widow, little Billy and the tiny daughter, the Reids adopted some time ago. Tributes to the dead actor, were many.

"We have lost one of our greatest stars," said Jesse Lasky.

Some of the tributes of movie stars were:

"I cannot express the grief and sorrow I feel"—Charlie Chaplin.

"My heartfelt sympathy goes out to Mrs. Reid"—Harold Lloyd.

"This is one of the saddest things I have ever known"—Theodore Roberts.

"He was a charming boy with great genius"—Mary Pickford.

"The motion picture has sustained an irreparable loss"—Douglas Fairbanks.

Acquired Drug Habit

Announcement by his mother-in-law was to the effect that more than a year before while working in studios in New York under a strain of illness he used drugs for a stimulant to hold him up through production of a picture which later gained fame as one of his best. This was revealed later to have set the drug habit upon him and finally last fall he broke down at the Hollywood studios and went under a physician's care.

It was a fight to the finish to conquer the habit and during the last month he was close to death on several occasions.

Reid was born in St. Louis, Mo., in 1892 and educated in New York. His stage career began in vaudeville with his father in "The Girl and the Ranger" and later he entered the motion pictures in the early days of this industry, associating with Selig Vitagraph and Universal.

Rise in Filmdom Rapid

His entrance was as a general utility man and he wrote, acted and directed. He was later employed by D. W. Griffith in "The Birth of a Nation" and entered the Lasky employ in Geraldine Farrar's "Carmen."

His ascendancy in the motion picture then was rapid and he became one of the best liked actors in Hollywood and New York.

It was announced Thursday night the funeral would be held Saturday afternoon in an Episcopal church, yet to be definitely selected, that the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks would have charge of the services, which would be open to the public, and that the body would be cremated.

Mrs. Thompson's Advice

HIS LETTERS MAKE GIRL JEALOUS

Boy Says They Were Written As Joke But Girl Takes Them Seriously

DEAR MRS. Thompson: I am a young man nineteen and in love with a girl still in school. We loved each other enough to be married, but we decided to wait a couple of years because we are too young to think of marriage now.

She went away for a week and one of her school friends looked me up at my home and said she had a letter from my sweetheart she would show me. Naturally I told her to bring it down. When she came she said she forgot it. She stayed at my home for the evening and we played cards to pass the time away as the time seemed so long with my own girl away. We got to writing notes across the table to each other, just foolish pranks. The girl wrote she loved me and I wrote back, just to have something to say, that I loved her.

The real and only girl on earth for me got hold of these notes when she got back and got very angry and dropped me. She would not give me a chance to see her and so I wrote a letter and begged her forgiveness. But she has not written.

She did write a letter and she carried it in her pocket at school and a friend stole it and gave it to me. As it was addressed to me I opened it and read that she could never forgive me for writing those notes, but she could never forget me. She said I had killed her love. I called her up and asked if she had received my letter and she said she had. She said she would think over forgiving me, but she still keeps out of my way. Do you think she ought to spoil our lives on account of that foolish prank? Her girl friend pretends to love her, but would take me away from her if I would listen. Should I try to forget her or live in hopes that she will forgive me? She is very jealous and offish in her disposition, but I love her for that. Please advise me what to do. HEART-SICK LOVER.

Your letter seems to be a companion piece to one written me recently. I advised the girl in that case to drop the man because any one who would write love letters in her absence as her fiance did could never be trusted. Your letter throws a different light on the situation. It was foolish to write what you did even in a prank, but it is evident that you thought the girl would understand and that she was a true friend to the girl and not a Judas. Write again and ask forgiveness. Of course, explain as you have explained to me. I would not advise you to give up some one you love so much. Keep hoping and let her see by your conduct that she is the only girl for you and you are not interested in any one else. I do think she ought to give you another chance.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-one years of age and have been married for three years. My husband is with his folks and refuses to support me. I am staying with my folks as I am about to become a mother next month. My husband has treated me so badly for so long I have lost all my love for him.

I have a good chance to get a home for my baby and myself as soon as I can get a divorce. But should I try to go back to my husband for the child's sake or take the home that is offered me.

Please advise me what to do, as I am very much worried. IN DOUBT.

You certainly ought to consult a lawyer. A divorce seems advisable since you and your husband cannot get along together. You have not mentioned whether you expect to work in a home or whether you intend to marry again. Probably it is the latter since you will have to wait for a divorce. Only a lawyer can advise you wisely. Of course, I do not know the intricacies of your problem.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are three girls, sixteen, eighteen and twenty years of age.

Is it proper for us to go to public dances unaccompanied?

Is it proper to dance with a person to whom you have not been introduced?

How late should we stay at a dance?

Is it all right for us to go riding at night with boys that we know quite well? THREE CHUMS.

It is not proper for you to go to public dances unaccompanied.

No. Only dance with young men to whom you have been introduced.

If you attend a dance properly chaperoned, it is all right to stay until the dance ends.

It is neither correct nor safe to go riding at night with boys.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years old and am considered pretty. There is a boy who lives in a neighboring town with whom I am very much in love. I have written to him a number of times, but he has never answered. I love this boy with all my heart and hate to think of never winning him. How can I win his affection?

Am I too young to be thinking of love? BOBBY.

To run after the boy will certainly not win his affections; and writing to him when he does not answer is running after him decidedly. Try to forget about him, because it is in bad taste to force your love on him.

Yes, I think you are too young to give so much thought to love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please tell me how to make eyelashes grow long. HELEN.

Red vaseline, five grams; boric acid, ten centigrams.

Make into a smooth paste and massage into the brows at night, also rubbing lightly over the lashes at the roots.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a freshman in high school, fourteen years old and am in love with a boy aged eighteen. I am considered very good-looking and so many boys in school like me. Do you think it was proper for me to accept a white wool sweater from my friend for Christmas? I gave him a picture in return. GREY-EYED NETTIE

In the first place you are too young to be in love with a boy eighteen. It was not in good taste for him to give you wearing apparel for a Christmas gift. Flowers, candy or a book would have been far better.

Hubby Balks at Poetry

Kyra MacKenzie, professional dancer and erstwhile poetess, and her dancing partner, Alfred J. Simington.

CHICAGO—What's a husband among exponents of the art of terpsichore? That's what Wilbur G. MacKenzie wants to know.

MacKenzie happens to be the husband of Kyra, professional dancing star. That's the reason for his interest.

Kyra has been touring the country with Alfred J. Simington as her dancing partner. MacKenzie in addition to his duties as husband, acted as manager for Kyra.

Everything went along smoothly, according to MacKenzie, as long as his wife kept her mind on her dancing. But when she tried to turn poet, well that was a desert that the camel couldn't cross.

Kyra started her career as a poet by writing a poem to Allah. Then she sent it to her dancing partner. But somehow or other Wilbur G. happened to get hold of the poem. Evidently he didn't appreciate it.

For Mrs. Kyra MacKenzie hied herself to domestic relations demanding a divorce. Desertion was what she charged, but she didn't say that the poem was what drove him away.

MacKenzie was frank to admit that as a poetess his wife might have something on him, but as the author of sundry charges necessary for a divorce petition he refused to admit her superiority.

So he came into court and answered Kyra's bill with a cross-bill.

Then it all come out—that is, MacKenzie's version.

He charged that he raised his wife's weekly salary from $15 a week to $450. Next he made divers comments on her poetic accomplishment.

MacKenzie asks an injunction restraining his wife from spending $20,000 which he alleges he saved out of her salary.

And so the matter stands and will stand until the court gets ready to act as poetry critic, to solve the "husband" mystery and hand down its decision.

The Ways of a Widow

FREEMAN CALLS THE RECTOR INTO HIS CONSPIRACY

Elsie returned from the telephone while the two men were silently reviewing the scope of this conclusion. They told her what they believed they had found to be the reason for old Andy Morgan's hitherto inexplicable decision to reform, in the matter of Railroad Row, at least.

"Father!" Elsie sensed the tragedy of it. "It's babies more than any one else, who are suffering because of that man! He is using impure milk!"

"Do you think that's it?" Jimmie felt, somehow, that he had been derelict in his duty not to have discovered this. "I've been through the plant and as far as I could see, they took all precautions to keep the milk from becoming tainted. Their chief engineer explained with great pride just how it was done."

"I believe Elsie has hit on a possible clue, anyway," Mr. Freeman said. "I think, after I get hold of Davenport and a few others and get this business of yours straightened out, I'll go down to the factory and have a look around. There's no use standing here speculating on the details, now that we feel pretty sure of our main fact."

Jimmie suggested that it might be less embarrassing if he did not remain for the interview with Davenport and Mr. Freeman agreed.

"Henry is all right," he said, "he is with us against Morgan but I've got a plan in mind that it is just as well you should not know. You, too, Elsie," he rounded on his daughter with mock severity. "As a modern, responsible business woman what do you mean by staying away from your shop like this? That pretty Mrs. Murray must be having her hands full while you stand here gossiping about your neighbors! Be off with you! Leave Andy Morgan to me!"

He hustled her off with Jimmie but when they had gone, his smile faded. He felt reasonably sure that Morgan could not reach him but he had come to see very plainly that Elsie was not invulnerable. Where Jimmie was concerned, she could be hurt. And he was too wise to underestimate the power behind the attack on Jimmie.

Of what had happened to Nan or that she might also be a victim of old Andy Morgan's, he had no inkling. The making of loans was not a matter that came under his direct attention, except very occasionally. In the course of time he would have heard that the bank had called her loan and he would have questioned it. But by that time the damage would have been done. Nor did he know, of her connection with the crusade. It did not even occur to him that the pretty young widow who might ultimately take his daughter into partnership had the remotest connection with the wealthiest man in Greenbriar.

As far as the Rev. Michael Sinclair was concerned however, there was no doubt. As Nan had seen at once, he too, saw that the rector would be a victim of Andy Morgan's. It would be just as well to let the Rev. Michael in on his plan! He went to the telephone and was fortunate enough to get him at once.

"Delighted," the Rev. Michael Sinclair answered. "This seems to be a day of conferences! By the way, have you seen Dr. Nelson? I've been trying for more than an hour to get in touch with him. I saw your laughter at the Japanese Shop this morning and she was also trying to reach him."

"He's on his way to his boarding house," Mr. Freeman answered, a trifle annoyed that the other should speak so plainly over the telephone. The fellow didn't have the making of a conspirator, in spite of the fact that otherwise he was pretty much a man! Still in a righteous cause—! He remembered the firm jaw of the new rector of St. Mark's and cheered up, considerably.

"Don't be too long, will you?" he begged. "I have a matter I want to talk over with you before the vestry meeting, tonight." And he hung up feeling sure he had completely fooled any listener-in, whether an innocent person or a satellite of old Andy Morgan's!

In the meantime Nan was left unexpectedly free to consider the problem of how to meet her loan. Except for a 'looker' or two, no one came in to the Japanese Shop. Thankful to have time to think, Nan did not at first wonder at the lack of customers.

HELPFUL HINTS

Keep the Top right-hand drawer of your sewing machine for thread and odds and ends snipped from your work, and when full this drawer is very easily emptied into the rag bag, thus doing away with the scrap basket in the sewing room. You will find this specially nice where the space is limited.

Rendering Lard—In rendering leaf lard cut in strips and run through sausage grinder and it will render more quickly.

For Whipped Cream—About two teaspoons of confectioners' sugar beaten into an egg white makes a good substitute for whipped cream.

Scalding Chickens — Add one large tablespoon baking soda to water for scalding chickens (or other poultry); it will loosen all the pin feathers and the bird will pick much easier.

Candied Cranberries — For holiday dinners these are delicious: Boil two cups sugar, one-half cup water and two tablespoons of butter until very thick, almost scorching. Drop into the hot syrup one cup dark red cranberries and boil about five minutes longer. Be sure to keep the syrup boiling, even while dropping the berries in. Take them out with a fork and lay in pulverized sugar.

Cheese Straws — These dainty luncheon sticks are very delicious and simple to prepare. Take one cup of grated York State cheese, one cup of flour, one teaspoon of baking powder, pinch of cayenne pepper, pinch of paprika, two tablespoons of milk and one egg. Mix together the cheese, flour, baking powder, pepper and paprika. Add the beaten egg, mix well and then add the milk. Roll out the dough one-fourth inch thick on a floured board, and cut into strips four inches long and one-half inch wide. Bake in hot oven.

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Stories

By Howard Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FROZEN BEE.

COPYRIGHT, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

After the cold spell in Woodland, where Uncle Wiggily lived, and after the birds had flown in his hollow stump bungalow to warm the bunny rabbit gentleman, Jack Frost took a little vacation.

That means it wasn't so cold. The sun shone warm and a honey bee, who had gone to sleep in a hollow tree, with other bees, feeling the warm sunshine, awoke, stirred his wings and buzzed.

"It must be spring! I am going out and gather honey from the flowers, for they must be in blossom now!"

"Nonsense! Don't be silly!" hummed the Queen Bee, who had partly awakened with the others. "This is but the January Thaw, little bee. It will be cold and freeze again, in a few days."

"Oh, I don't believe so," buzzed the other bee, who was one of the workers in the summer hive. "I am going out and gather honey from the flower blossoms."

And no matter what the others said, out he flew from the hollow tree, down inside of which was a warm bee's nest.

Well, the sun was shining bright and warm outside. But, for all that, there was snow on the ground and a chilling wind blew. The little bee flew about, looking here and there for flowers, but none could he see, of course.

Then, as the sun went down, the air grew cold and chill, and when night came Jack Frost hurried back from his vacation at the North Pole and blew his cold breath over everything.

"Oh, the Queen Bee was right—summer has not yet come!" thought the little buzzer. "I must fly back to the warm trees!"

But alas! He could not find his way. And as he flew here and there the chill air made his wings heavy so that soon their buzzing stopped.

"Oh dear! Oh—dear! Oh-o-o-o D-e-a-r!" sighed the cold bee, and then, unable to fly farther, he curled up in a little ball and fell on the woodland path. "I am quite frozen!" he murmured. "Quite frozen! This is the end of me!"

About this time Uncle Wiggily hopped along. He had been over to Grandpa Goosey Gander's house playing Scotch checkers and was now on his way to eat the warm supper Nurse Jane Fuzzy would have ready.

As Uncle Wiggily passed the place where the frozen bee had fallen, the bunny heard a faint buzzing of cold wings. Looking down, Mr. Longears saw the bee in the twilight and said:

"Poor little buzzer! He must have thought this was the first day of spring, because it was a bit warm, and he came out of the hollow tree hive. Well, he is still alive. I'll take him home to my warm kitchen. Nurse Jane has a few flowers there, and maybe he can live on them until spring really comes."

So Uncle Wiggily put the frozen bee in his warm fur coat pocket and hopped on to his bungalow. When almost there, all of a sudden the Bob Cat leaped out of the bushes crying:

"I must have ears! I just must have ears!"

"And I must have a sting! I must have a sting!" buzzed the bee, who was now warm again and quite lively. "I'll sting you and you can't have Uncle Wiggily's ears!" hummed the bee.

Flying out of the bunny's warm pocket, the bee stung the Bob Cat on his soft and tender nose.

"Wouehie! Wozie!" howled the bad chap, and then he ran away to find some snow in which to cool his burning, stinging nose.

"Thank you, Mr. Bee, you saved my ears!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "But you had better get back in my warm pocket again." And the bee did, being no longer frozen. Uncle Wiggily took the honey buzzer home and he lived on Nurse Jane's bungalow flowers until spring really came. And then the bee flew back to the hollow tree and helped make honey.

And if the egg beater doesn't try to jump rope with the string of beads and trip up the potato masher, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the happy turtle.

Realism Will Mark Novels, Says Walpole

Famous Author Speaks To 900 At Music Hall Here

Approximately 900 persons heard Hugh Walpole's lecture on "The English Novel of the Twentieth Century" at Music hall last night. Tickets were in such demand that it was necessary to accomodate 50 ... guests on the platform and many people were turned away, according to members of Theta Sigma Phi under whose auspices the address was given.

That the new novel will be realistic with newly acquired realism, ... glory of color, hope, feeling and love is the opinion of this English writer.

This realism, Mr. Walpole explained, found its origin in the novels of Thomas Hardy and George Meredith, and has reached ... development in the four ... novelists of today: John ..., Arnold Bennett, Henry ... and the greatest of all according to the speaker, Joseph Conrad. The last of these was successful in combining romance and realism.

Defines Realism

"A realist," defined Mr. Walpole, "is a man whose eyes are fixed on things he sees. The romanticist ... his ear to the wall in an effort to hear the noises in the next ... and strains his eye to see what is going on around the next ..., always hoping that there ... may lie something that will ... the life which counts."

... element most noticeable in ... new English novel and most ... absent in the old is ... of art and beauty, explained Mr. Walpole. The chief concern of ... artist is to render the sordid ... repulsive and the beautiful, familiar.

His mission is to interpret truth ... the things which a man aims ... The modernist considers ... of human nature brighter ... and happier the highest ... to which he can aspire.

CO-ED HEALTH TESTS ASSIST U. S. IN SPECIAL INVESTIGATION

Results from the new series of competitive tests which were conducted by the women's physical education department here for the first time in Lathrop last week have been compiled and the highest scores announced.

These tests have been devised by Miss Ethel Perrin, assistant director of health education at Detroit, and are endorsed by the Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., army and navy officials, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and the National Physical Education association.

John W. Weeks, secretary of War suggested trying out a system of physical tests. The basis obtained from the results from age and performance records would be in testing the present physical condition of the youth of the country.

Carrying out Mr. Week's suggestions, Miss Perrin worked out this plan of testing women. It is being put into operation in many schools throughout the country. The results from all of the schools will be brought together at the national convention, and the efficiency of these particular tests discussed as the basis for testing all young people.

A 50-yard dash, a running leap and a target throw at a basketball four feet up with a baseball comprise the series. The usual agility tests, which have been given here formerly have been more for agility, balance, speed and coordination.

Highest results were:

Running leap—Gwendolyn Drake '26, 10 feet; Dorothy John '25, 9 feet 8 inches; 50-yard dash—Dorothy John '25, Melvina Svec '25, Alice Gilberts '26, and Gwendolyn Drake '26, 8 seconds on a circular track.

Educaction A Tool To Work With Davis Writes In Commerce Mag

That education is but a means to an end, a tool to work with rather than work itself is the belief expressed by James J. Davis, secretary of labor, in an article on "True Education" which appears in the January issue of The Commerce Magazine. he magazine will be on sale today.

"No matter what place in life the individual is to occupy, whether he plunge into the crowded stream of commerce and industry, or join the ranks of the world's scientists and teachers, he cannot succeed unless he takes in his hands the tools which lie before him and works with them," writes Mr. Davis.

The article, which goes to the heart of the education la problems of universities, belittles the agitation of some educators for the restrictions of training to a single class to be known as an "aristocracy of brains".

Prof. Stephen Gilman has article in this issue urging students to begin preparing four yars ahead of time to meet the employing executive. He has set down the qualities which an employer looks for when he is interviewing applicants.

"New Problems in Highway Traffice" is an article by F. A. Cannon, executive secretary of the Good Reads association, on the truck haulage situation in this state. Dr. Alfred P. Haske, former professor of economics at this university and now head of the department of economics at Rutgers college, has writen an article on his visit in Maison during the Holidays. "The University Jounral of Business" was writen by Edwin Schujahn '24.

Humor enters the magazine through the medium of "Paul Bunyan and His Big Blue Ox", a myth which originated in the lumber camps and which has become a part of the every day life of the loggers fom Maine to aWshington. Many of the extracts in the article were heard personally by Karl Reynolds '23, tho writer.

Juniors To Plan R. O. T. C. Horse Show

The juniors of the R. O. T. C. unit recently elected a chairman and two assistant chairmen to direct the horse show which will be given some time in May.

Paul K. Robertson '25, will be general chairman. He will be assisted by Roy L. Stith '24, chairman of the program and clerk of course, and Bowman K. Breed '24, chairman of the awards committee and treasurer.

Committeemen will be named latter by the respective chairman.

There will be a wide choice of events and entries may select those which suit them best. The R. O. T. C. and the national guard already have signified their intention of competing. Both individual and group prizes will be awarded with a cup for the winner of each event.

Stith, who has taken part in several rodeo and round-up celebrations in western states, has planned an elaborate program of events including cowboy riding and monkey drill as well as the usual fancy riding and gaited events.

Fencing and wrestling on horseback, hurdling and a fashion show of ladies riding habits also will be included in the program.

As a preliminary drill for the affair, Stith is trying to arrange several equestrian events to be given in connection with the horse show of the Little International, February 24.

It may be impossible to arrange a monkey drill for the Little International because of the short time left for practice, but several other acts are being worked out.

The date for the show in the spring has not been set, but it is planned to hold it on the afternoon of the Venetian night fete if no other events conflict.

45 GIRLS WILL SING IN GLEE CLUB CONCERT

The program will include a group of two eastern songs, a group of five selected songs, and a short cantata, "King Rene's Daughter."

The Glee club has met with much success in its previous concerts in Madison. The organization is directed by Dr. C. H. Mills, director of the University School of music.

Village of Sun Prairie Was Named in Peculiar Manner

A. A. Bird, State Building Commissioner, Saw Beauties Of Location After Trip From Milwaukee

The name Sun Prairie almost explains itself. The manner of bestowing this name upon the town contains a story.

After Madison had been decided upon as the future capital of the territory of Wisconsin, building commissioner, A. A. Bird, left Milwaukee in 1837 with a crew of workmen to erect the capitol building. The route taken by them was through an unbroken wilderness. It had been raining when they left Milwaukee and for eight days they were drenched to the skin. Each day was a day of lowering skies and foul, but the little band kept marching. On the ninth day they came to an opening in the woods and stood upon the edge of a prairie just as the sun broke through the clouds and bathed everything with its golden glory. The weary and depressed travelers broke into a cheer, and forthwith the place was christened Sun Prairie.

A few years later a settlement was made several miles farther west by Charles Bird, who filed an application with the postmaster general for an office at that place. This was granted in the name of Rome, but a year or two later it was changed to its present name of Sun Prairie.

He will have to win the interest of the public by his personal conduct, clever handling of any preparation for the proposed battle and by his general showing in the ring before the big bout.

America will be glad to look over Mr. Criqui. But the French father's chances against Kilbane will be weighed after the lad has shown in this country. His past record means little.

Johnny Meyers, Turk Mahmout And Gotch Here For Bout

TONIGGHT'S the night—when Madison wrestling fans swarm to Turner hall for one of the biggest mat cards ever arranged here.

Johnny Meyers, middleweight wrestling champ who forced Heinie Engel, Dubuque, Ia., favorite, to collapse in the ring Wednesday night after three hours and twenty minutes of wrestling, arrived here Thursday afternoon and is in great condition for the bout. Meyers will go on here with Young Gotch, Los Angeles, Cal., mat man who lost to Demetral here recently.

Jimmie Demetral, Madison's contender for Meyer's title, will meet Turk Mahmout, Ohio grappler. All three outside wrestlers arrived here Thursday.

The third man in the ring had not been decided upon late Thursday afternoon. Demetral says he has been satisfied, as have been all visiting wrestlers, with the work of Hitchcock, university wrestling coach. Jimmie tells us that Meyers is demanding a Chicago man. It is expected that this matter will be decided early today. There was a little dissension last September between Meyers and Demetral as to who the referee would b, but th boys came to satisfactory terms when Larney Lechenstein was brought here. Larney took over the management of Meyers about two weeks after the bout and has been directing the destinies of the champion since that time.

To most fans, tonight's card will have an added feature when Meyers and Gotch meet, as they will battle by rounds. There will be six ten-minute rounds.

Whether or not Demetral is to get a return bout with Meyers will be announced by Larney Lechenstein from the ring. This fact will draw a large crowd of fans anxious to know "what's what" in the argument between the champion and the contender over another bout.

The middleweight wrestling title is being sought more than any other in the country, considering even the fight game. Johnny Meyers is being besieged day after day by gapples who claim they are entitled to a bout with him. Unusually they get one—and that's all. The champion has been barnstorming throughout the country during the past year and in his mateches from coast to coast he hasn't met any tougher men than Heinie Engel and Jimmie Demetral. Engel stayed with the champ longer it's true, but the fact that Demetral sustained a broken ankle in his bout, leaves much to be decided upon. Could Demetral have stayed the full two hours and five minutes? Could he have thrown Meyers? Could Meyers have thrown him? All such questions arise and there is only one way to settle the matter and that is by having Demetral and Meyers meet again.

Meyers stated, following the bout with Jimmie, that the local Greek was the toughest foe he had ever met and he would be willing to give him a return bout when Demetral's ankle had healed. Its healed now and Demetral is demanding a bout.

While in Chicago recently Demetral visited Meyers' manager an dasked for another match. We are told by the local man it was refused. Lechenstein, however, has assured the promoters that tonight the entire matter will be explained and the fans can form their own personal opinions.

The first bout is scheduled to start at 8:,5. Just which one it will be isn't known. The referee will help decide when a coin is flipped and the "heads or tails" method is used.

Seats will sell at $3, $2, and $1. Ringside seats have been going fast and about one-fifth of them remain to be sold.

All Three Madison High School Net Teams Will Go To Different Meets

Triangles Retain Industrial League Lead; Beat French

4C Trims Co. I Quint; Marines Beat Forest Products

In a fast, hard-fought game the Triangles, leaders in the Industrial league, defeated the French Ray-o-lites 25 to 8 at the city "Y" last night. 4C crushed Company I" 45 to 9.

The Triangle—French battery game was much faster than the score indicates, and the Triangles were forced to exert themselves to score. The Ray-o-lites held their stronger opponents to a low score in the first half, but were unable to score themselves. Tallard was the individual star for the Triangles, and Roach showed up best for the Ray-o-lites.

The 4C-Company "I" game was a walkaway for the former, although the guards started out very promisingly. Teck, 4C right forward, was able to score at will, and although he played only a little over one half he made 8 baskets.

The State-Teck combination was the nucleus of the 4C team, and Sylvestor was perhaps the least worst of the guards.

Lineup:

Triangles		French Battery
Smeltzer	RF	Gannon
Tallard	LF	Sutton
Halverson	C	Wiedenbeck
Berg	RG	Roach
Meyers	LG	Brickson

Chicago Track Team Is the Best in Years

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 17—With two weeks of strenuous training behind them, the Maroon track men are rounding into form for their first meet with Northwestern, Saturday. Although the team has been seriously handicapped by the loss of several good men due to eligibility rulings, coaches and trainers agree that the team will be the best in three years.

Two relay teams are being organized and it is expected that they will make a good showing at the Illinois relays and at the Penn and Drake events. Both the mile and two mile teams will be composed of old runners, although a few of the candidates may give them a tight race for their positions.

Central High Game Changed To Saturday

Were To Have Met At Local Gymnasium Tonight

The Madison Central high and Edgerton high school basketball teams will meet here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock instead of tonight at 7:30 as was recently announced.

The change in time was made so that the Edgerton team can return by train immediately after the game.

Edgerton has a fast team and early in the season handed Johnson's men a neat trimming.

Johnson hasn't much material with which to work but never-the-less has succeeded in developing a fair team out of poor material. With the second semester approaching he hopes that certain men now ineligible will be on eligible roster for competition. There are a number of fast men now on the barred list but hopes are high for the return of some of them.

Central high has an exceptionally tough schedule this year and if Johnson's proteges succeed in pulling through with a fair percentage of wins the Yellow and Black mentor can be proud of his record. The old adage that "you can't get something for nothing" is being disregarded by Johnson.

East Side High And Janesville Battle Tonight

UNLESS there is a marked improvement in the playing of the East Side high school basketball quintet, coach Archie Morrow's men are in for another trimming tonight when they meet Janesville at the Bower City.

The following East Side players will make the trip: "Hod" Moran, Fred Doring, Halvorsen, Pete Hammasher, Scorchy Armstrong, Grant Fields and Ralph Kamm.

Basketball at the new school hasn't been coming along exceptionally well because of the fact that Morrow hasn't any one place he can count on whenever he wants it for the men. The practicing is usually carried on at the Lincoln school but when the Lincolnites want to use the gym the East Siders must find another place to workout.

Marinette High Player Dies From Injuries

MARINETTE, Wis.—Basketball claimed its first victim of the year in Wisconsin when Claude P. Meckey, 19 years old, members of the Marinette high school five, died from a ruptured appendix incurred while playing against the Stephenson, Mich., high school here last Thursday night. When taken to the hospital immediately after the injury, Yockey was in a critical condition and an operation was performed, but without success.

Roundy Says:

We Don't Want A "Little" Coach, We Want A Big One

Johnny Meyers who wrestles at Turner hall tonight was in the greatest match that ever was staged in the wrestling game. The bout went over three hours and it wore down no doubt one of the hrdest and toughest men in the game, Heinie Engel. Meyers proved that the title should still rest on his head. Why? He wrestled the man in his own town, everything going in the ring, and it was the hardest and nerve racking match that ever was staged in the game. After three hours Engel fell in a heap on the ring floor from exhaustion and was soon in a sound slumper of sleep. Some match folks! So get to Turner hall tonight and see the greatest wrestler in the wide world Johnnie Meyers.

Demertal will have his hands full tonight and all-in-all this should be the greatest athletic contest Madison will see this winter and for many other winters to come for indoor sport. All men are in the pink and raring to go. Tonight at Turner hall is the time, and if you want to see some real wrestling then park yourself in Turner hall tonight. Ladies only twenty-five cents. You can get over 600 in the hall and don't worry about not getting a seat if 500 are there it will be called a good house.

We do not want a "little" coach for Wisconsin. We want some great big coach.

We want that athletic field and we want it for this summer.

A man in Waunakee named Bub Baker will give 7 acres to the Waunakee baseball team to use this summer, and will fence it all around like a big league park. Here is a swell hint for the people in this town to wake-up and take care of the young people with a fine athletic field. What say?

STEW MUCH

A big deal was put over in one section of this town yesterday and it was between a colored man and a Italian. The colored man put over the deal and is now dressed up like the Prince of Wales and said, "Plenty of chicken this winter."

O'yes, the Fuller and Johnson has a bowling team six women and two men. They bowl every Wednesday night at the Park alleys. Florence Schauder is one o the girls. She wears a nice while blouse when she bowls and is always asking what time it is. Don't worry Florence no one is going to take you steady if he don't call for you. Gladys Utter wears a flaming red blouse a bull forty years old with falling eye sight could see it a mile away. Gladys as a bowler must be handy around those Fuller and Johnson engines. Esther Lyster; not much to say boys, as long as she can talk to Leo Hogan one of the men bowlers she is more happy than getting a 300 score. Laura Geier who wears he hair short and has a smile like a top santa claus as a bowler must be awful handy with a wash-ringer. Gertrude Sauthoff as awful quiet around the alleys, and I don't blame here with those 98 scores she got. Gilbert Stephan the other man bowler must enjoy himself every Wednesday night. "Like h——l", he said to me "how far is it to Zion city."

Mrs. La Hail is the other bowler. Her husband is the ball pitcher. As a bowler all I can say I like the way her husband pitches ball.

There will be a voting contest for an ice carnival queen. I do not know if my gal is going to get this or not, but I can say it will take some queen to beat her out of it. A penny a vote or a dollar a vote! A bird walked into the First National bank and up to Bill Walker who has charge of the voting contest and said, "I want to put a votes for your dame? The man "how much do you want to pay for votes for your dame? The man said, "Oh I feel sporty today, give me three cents' worth."

Big John Jennings writes to this column saying I am not looking for football coach at Wisconsin. But you can run an article that I will put my application in for chief piano-mover if they create a job for that position. Outside of being all played out, and all out of tune, and striking a bunch of bum notes, Jennings seems to be o. k.

Did you see "Norb" Diedrich in the play held by Holy Redeemer church this week? The play was put over with a bang. Great stuff. Speaking of Diedrich no vaudeville firm has sent him any telegrams with tempting offers as yet—stick in the bushes for a while yet, Norb.

Wisconsin will defeat Minnesota at basketball Saturday night at Minneapolis.

Give us that athletic field. And give the Eastside high a gym, and auditorium. Correct, sit down.

At the dance of the Progressive Women the other night at the Beaver building a grand march was held and due to such a large crowd and the limited space an awful jam was looked for when it was started. But with Prof. Kehl and Mrs. Margaret Kinney Shaub leading, the thing was done in the most remarkable manner I ever saw. Both of these two people should get a leading place in the Prom march. When it comes to class and putting things over in a classy manner you got to tip your old stiff cady to the professor.

Received a nice letter and an elegant picture of the Iowa basketball team yesterday from Sam Barry the coach. He said Hancock of Superior is still in a bad condition from football injuries or would be on the first team if he was able to use his knee. There are 10 men in the the squad. He sends his best the squad. He sends his best to all the Madison fans through this column.

Help

Come on Gordon Wanzer of the Chi Psi house and slip me some spectators seats for the prom. I gave Taft a little boost for chairman in this column around election time—due to one thing being a football man. The election showed you were the man they wanted for the place and I am tooting my horn for you since election. I hope you have a fine time at the prom Gordon old top and I will be there to lamp you off and say a few kind words for your beautiful partner and you the next day. But to see you I got to get a few pasteboards that say "this way in."

You notice that there is no snow on the Blackhawk golf grounds. Why? Simply because John McKenna knocked it all off trying to hit that little white golf ball. They should paint it black or put a light on it and McKenna might hit it once in a while with a snow shovel.

Wisconsin Net Quintet Leaves for Gopherdom

Badgers Doped To Win; Exciting Tilts In Conference

By BRYN GRIFFITHS

Wisconsin's basketball team will either retain its 1000 percentage in the "Big Ten" conference or drop a notch Saturday night when Meanwell's men clash at Northrop gym with "Doc" Cooke's proteges in the Badger's fourth conference tilt of the season.

Expect Victory

Chances for a Wisconsin victory are bright, as Cooke hasn't much of a team because of ineligibilities. Men who will make the trip with Meanwell are Capt. Tebell, Williams, Gage, Elsom, Gibson, Baries, Spooner, Wackhman, Radke and Barwig.

Its an unusual fact that many of the Cardinal net men play a much better game while on a foreign floor than in the Wisconsin armory. Its a cinch that these men will have a big opportunity to prove this to a greater extent in the coming conference games.

One of the big games this week-end, although it won't materially affect the conference standings is the tilt scheduled between Ohio and Chicago. Neither one of the two teams has copped a conference game and a tough fight is predicted at Patten gym when the two quints try to lift themselves out of the zero class.

Purdue Meet Illini

Purdue is expected to start its march toward the top of the ladder Saturday when Illinois is met. The Suckers haven't offered much competition to date and it isn't likely that the Boilermakers will have any trouble disposing of the Illini.

Iowa and Ohio State will battle Saturday night and the Buckeyes, if they get trimmed at Chicago tonight can expect to be smothered under at Iowa City the following night.

Indiana and Northwestern will meet Saturday in what should be a fast game. The teams are about on a par and the score will undoubtedly be close.

Ohio Will Lose Football Star From 1923 Team

Ohio will lose from her football team next year, Frank "Tee" Young, one of the best linesman in her 1921 team, unless he makes up the hours he has failed at summer school. Ineligibility prevented his playing on the 1922 team. Jack Cameron, a fine prospect for quarterback, will also have to take summer school work if he desires to make the team.

Whitewater, Monroe And Watertown Are Named As Districts

Is First Time In History Of District Tournaments That Madison Teams Have Not Gone To Same School To Battle For Title

MADISON will have three high schools represented in separate district basketball tournaments this year instead of having them entered in the same section as in past years, it became known today.

The Central high school and Wisconsin high teams used to travel to the Whitewater tourney. With the addition of the new East Side high school it became necessary to change this and as a result each school will go to a different meet.

Central high will battle at Whitewater as in past years; the East Side quintet will journey to Watertown; and the Wisconsin high basketeers will go to Monroe, although there is a possibility this might be changed later.

Monroe, it is rumored isn't willing to have a tourney there because of the financing. High school basketball tourneys at Monroe would be something new. If Monroe refuses, it is expected that Platteville will be host to the Badger preps, although it is probable that a new district will be formed if Monroe backs out of the proposition.

Sending the three local schools to different tournaments will add more interest in the state championship from Madison secondary school student's way of looking at it.

Although Wisconsin high school is the only one of the three schools lined up as probable title winners in the district meets, both the Central and East Side teams might be strong contenders in their districts if certain men can be made eligible before the second semester.

District tournaments will be held during the first two weeks in March. Last year the Wisconsin high school copped at Whitewater and the Central high team placed third.

Badger Preps At Evansville For Big Game

Two Schools Chief Contenders For District Title

One of the most interesting basketball games southern Wisconsin high schools have booked this year will be played at Evansville tonight when the Wisconsin high school plays the high school there.

Evansville and the Badger Preps are thought to be the leading contenders for the district title at Whitewater—for which they played in the final game of the tourney last year. Davis' men coming out on top in the final moments of play.

Evansville has practically the same team that gave the Blue and White a touch championship battle and indications are that it is to be anybody's game until the final whistle.

Badger Puck Chasers Meet Michigan Today

Primed by a week of hard practice, the Wisconsin hockey team is "rarin" to go in an effort to avenge the defeats of last week by winning from Michigan in the home series this afternoon and and tomorrow.

The teams clash this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and tomorrow's game is set for 2:30 o'clock on the lower campus.

The last Michigan line up probably will be unchanged with Comb at goal; Lindstrom, center; Anderson and Henderson, wings; and Kahn and MacDuff, defense.

Lindstrom and Kahn are the aggressive pair that figured in Wisconsin's downfall last week at Michigan.

For the Badgers, Capt. Comback-er [illegible] the team from center and Tredwell will fill his old position at [illegible]. Fiske and Johnson are on the wings and Blodgett and Mokrejs will play in their regular defensive positions.

Report of the Markets

Report for January 18, 1923

Wheat Market Rises Due To Better News

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO — More favorable political news from abroad together with firmness in Liverpool quotations gave the wheat market a steady undertone here today during early dealings. Strength in the cotton and stock markets also had some effect as did Washington reports which expressed belief that the first of the farm credits bills would receive a favorable vote today. Trading was of a local character at the start and the market soon ran into selling orders. The opening which varied from unchanged to ¼c higher May 1.18⅞@1.19 and July 1.13⅛@¼ was followed by a slight setback and then a moderate rally on all deliveries.

Subsequently enlarged commission house buying which was based on drought news and which found offerings light brought about a material upturn in prices but then the gains were lost as a result of renewed general selling. The close was easy at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅝c lower, May 1.18½@⅝ and July 1.13@⅛.

CORN — Corn was dull with a light trade. After starting ⅛@¼ cent off, May 73⅝@½, the market underwent a slight general decline and later and recovered a little.

Later the market continued to be governed by wheat but kept within a narrow range. The close was weak ¼@½@⅝c net lower May 72⅞@73.

OATS—Oats started unchanged to ⅛c up, May 45½ and later suffered a slight general sag.

PROVISIONS —Provisions were higher.

Stock Market Takes Further Slump Today

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK— Further recovery in prices took place at the opening of today's stock market. Demand was particularly effective in the steel, oil and equipment shares, although specialties continued to record the largest gains. Eastman Kodak was pushed up 1⅝ and Du-Pont I. U. S. Steel common, opened ⅝c higher and was followed into higher ground by Crucible, Midvale and Gulf States steels. Early losses were limited to very small fractions. The gains were extended as trading progressed, New York Aairbrake, Pan American, Baldwin, People's Gas, U. S. Rubber, Timken Roller Bearing and California Petroleum advanced 1 to 1¼ points. Sloss Sheffield moved up 1½ and the Preferred 2. Foreign Exchanges opened firm, demand Sterling being quoted to 4.66¼ or nearly one cent above last night's close. French, Belgian and Italian rates also stiffened while marks rallied to .0054 as against yesterday's extreme low of .0042.

Railroad stocks were taken in hand in the late dealings and a number of low priced and investment issues were pushed up 1 to 2 points. The closing was irregular sales 950,000 shares.

African Tribal King Responsible for Flappers

IVY ST. HELIER

Influences of a Thousand Years Ago Reflected In Youth of Today

A coal-black African king some thousand years ago set in motion the first chords that in this jazz day have produced the flapper.

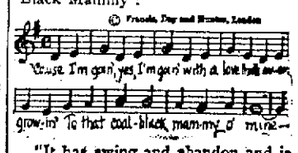

Such is the astonishing declaration of Ivy St. Helier, English girl, who recently composed "Coal Black Mammy," an American plantation melody.

Her interest in things American led her to make a study of the country's music and the observation about the flapper is one of the outcomes.

"Music which tossed all restraint aside was the beginning of the flapper," says Miss St. Helier.

"The dance of more or less abandon, extreme dress, habits, and morals followed as a matter of course.

"Take this strain from 'Coal Black Mammy':

"It has swing and abandon and is descended in a straight line from the African monarch, who a thousand years ago ordered his drums to be beat.

"Modern taste has taken a fancy to the tempo to which his warriors pranced and danced, and fond mothers, whether they like it or not, are forced to sit by while their daughters' manners and clothes are moulded by the relic of an ancient coal-black king."

Prosperity Of U. S. Discussed At Meet

Prof. William H. Kiekhofer, in his final lecture in the course of economics yesterday, outlined what he considered the chief causes of the present-day maladjustments in our economic life.

Professor Kiekhofer has been granted a leave of absence for the second semester and will devote the time to the completion of some manuscripts on which he has been working for some time.

Before leaving the class, Professor Kiekhofer expressed a wish that the students who were taking the course would make a study of these problems of maladjustment with a view to doing their part in solving them.

He stressed the present maladjustment of debt existing between the United States and European countries declaring that he was in favor of making Germany pay every cent of reparation possible, but pointing out that it will be impossible to make that payment worth anything so long as the present maladjustment in exchange exists.

"We cannot hope for a return to prosperity in this country until the conditions in Europe are settled satisfactorily.

"Prosperity cannot exist in one part of the country while others are going through depression. Neither can one nation exist independently of the others.

"In the present-day system of economic inter-dependence it is becoming more and more evident that no one of us can live unto himself alone."

National Thrift Week

Life Insurance Day

Why has Life Insurance been given a day in National Thrift Week?

THINK IT OVER

Life Insurance is one of the highest forms of thrift because you protect that which you not only have saved but guarantee that which you intend to save.

A Thrifty Man will not take a long chance himself nor will he allow his family to do so. For that reason he allows the Insurance Companies to carry the risk for him.

Are you protecting your family?

Are you providing for Old Age?

Is your Business protected?

Have you Business Insurance?

Have you provided cover for Inheritance Tax?

Will you leave your wife a Monthly Income?

Have you guaranteed your children's Education?

Why Should Wisconsin Be Archaic In Taking Care Of Unfortunates

IF every person in Wisconsin would read the address delivered by Prof. J. L. Gillin to the Rotary club here Thursday, a great contribution would be made toward the solving of the problem of the caring of our unfortunates, defectives, insane and criminals.

It is to be regretted that Wisconsin, which stands out in the forefront in so many fields of progressive endeavor, is still in a backward stage in the treatment of the problems arising out of those persons in society unable to take care of themselves.

Prof. Gillin hits the nail on the head when he says that the persons charged by law with administering the welfare of the state's unfortunates are thinking more of the BUSINESS side than of the HUMAN side.

In other words: We are in a stage in Wisconsin where we think MORE of a balance sheet from the state prison at Waupun showing a big profit made on binder twine than we do of the increasingly disturbing figures that show insanity, crime and mental defectiveness on the increase in the state.

THE care of the state's unfortunates centers largely in the state board of control. Prof. Gillin states the situation accurately when he says that the members of the board of control are too busy with the administration and business side of the state institutions to give constructive thought to the direction of work in this state that would seek to prevent crime, insanity and mental defectiveness. In Wisconsin, we care for the finished product and we do but little to remove the causes and the sources that bring the finished products to our institutions. Members of the board of control are busy with contracts for coal, food and clothing for state institutions along with the other purely administrative duties and so we continue in a backward stage in the treatment of our unfortunates.

IN the field of medicine, preventive medicine is making tremendous strides. We are learning that a "stitch in time saves nine". Big educational campaigns are being conducted in personal hygiene, fresh air and proper foods as a means of cutting down sickness and death. We are preaching that doctrine that the man who takes care of himself and follows methods designed to PREVENT sickness and disease is the wise man.

In the field of social welfare, however, we are still archaic. We continue to pile the state's unfortunates into our state institutions and our sole aim seems to be to get enough work out of these helpless individuals to make the institutions as near "self sustaining" as possible. We appoint chair warming politicians to administer these institutions who have no conception of the real problems arising out of the state's unfortunates.

We find a big percentage of the men who go to prison are boys around 20 who have no trade. We put them to work in the binder twine plant and the state makes money on their work. When their terms expire, will these boys find any binder plants in which they can find honest employment? What more, natural, then, that they again turn to crime and are again sent back to prison. The insane and the feeble minded are becoming more of a liability each day because adequate measures for their care are not provided. Every insane person who could have been cured by proper treatment IN TIME becomes a big burden to the state when he goes into the chronic stage.

Prof. Gillin has raised a tremendously important question. As we remember the figures, families that are normal have an average of three children while those that are abnormal and defective have on an average of five children. Do not these figures contain a solemn warning to the future welfare of humanity?

Hear Dr. Holmes Tonight

ONE of the most fearless figures of late world war period was Dr. John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Community church of New York.

Dr. Holmes is one of the most forceful pulpit orators of the country. When the war came, Dr. Holmes was one of the small group of clergymen in the country who took the teachings of the Bible to mean that "Thou Shalt Not Kill" meant exactly that. Dr. Holmes is opposed to war and he had the courage to say so even during the war.

Dr. Holmes will speak in Music hall at the university tonight at 7:30. He has but recently returned from Europe and will discuss the wreckage in which Europe is enveloped as a result of the war. A large crowd should turn out to hear Dr. Holmes.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Irish Killings

Action of Irish Free State On Killings Is Discussed

[To the Editor:]—Will you be good enough to publish enclosed item in your Voice of the People. The fact that these notable Englishmen have protested the murder by the Irish Free State, of their prisoners of war, may do much to correct the false impression that the Free State is the ideal form of government for the Irish. —Catherine Graham, Red Cross Nurse in World War.

AN ENGLISH PROTEST

Amongst the numerous telegrams sent from America, France, Italy, etc., to the International Red Cross was the following:

"International Red Cross, Geneva:

"We the undersigned strongly protest against the action of the Irish Provisional Government in violating the international right of prisoners of war to have their lives preserved after falling into the hands of their opponents.

"Signed—G. K. Chesterton, Wilfred Meynell, Bertram Russell, Shane Leslie, and the following members of the British Parliament: Shapivigi Saklatvala, M. P. for Battersea; Cecil H. Wilson, M. P. for Sheffield; T. Walton Newbold, Communist Member; Rev. Herbert Dunnico, M. P., Secretary of the International Peace Society."

This telegram appeared in the American and European papers, but was not allowed publication in the Irish.

ANOTHER FARMER REPLIES TO K. E.

[To the Editor:] — Have just been reading the letter by K. E. of De Forest in which he quotes the saying, that the farmer earns 5 per cent and God Almighty gives him 95 per cent. Would like to ask him—Why more business men don't come out and earn 5 per cent, and receive the Lord's donation? Why? Because he knows that it would take him about twelve hours a day to earn that 5 per cent.

K. E. also states that the farmers bought more automobiles than many a small business man. Well! Who needs them the most? (I can hear him say that the farmer has his horses). So he has, but the horse today has a different duty to perform. Besides the farmer with his present day profits on the fruits of his labor, has not the time, to take a half a day off once or twice a week, and drive old Dobbin to the village for his groceries. His earning capacity has been so reduced that he has to do all that he can, himself, and get along with out hiring help. Even though he drives his horse to town, how many towns now days have a place to tie your horse. If there is any such place, it is a long walk from the store with an armful of groceries.

Having the luck to break my old sleigh the other day, I was told by two different dealers that a sleigh would cost me $40.00.

Hogs sell at about 8c a hundred pounds. My old sleigh cost $13.75 when hogs were from 5 to 6 cents a hundred. Last year I had to buy a wagon for which I had to pay $70 on 7 and 8 cent hogs. My old wagon cost $86.00 with hogs selling at from 5 to 6 cents. Overalls cost over a dollar a pair now. A few years back, 75 cents bought the best overalls made.

Groceries and all the necessities of the farmer are on the same high level while the farmer is selling at wholesale.

Butter you say is a good price. Yes! but, salt is $3.50 a barrel, and feed is in proportion.

Show me where there is any profit in it for the average farmer.

Just a word, as to your paper, Mr. Editor, will say that I like it fine and would hate to have to get along wihout it.—L. E. Hawley, Oregon, Wis.

The shy curate was put next to the very deaf Duchess at dinner, and she wished to be gracious.

"I didn't quite catch your name," she said. "Will you please tell me what it is?"

"Jinks, Your Grace," answered the curate.

"Just a little louder, please."

"Jinks, Your Grace," repeated the curate, raising his voice.

"I'm awfully deaf," apologized the Duchess. "Would you mind saying it just a little louder?"

"Jinks, Your Grace," he almost yelled.

"I'm sorry," said the Duchess, giving it up. "It sounds just like 'Jinks' to me."—London Ideas.

Fashion expert announces gravely that the corset has come to stay. We believe it.

Among the evils that should be abolished is the first of the month.

We never want another war and we never want another peace like this one.

Poems That Live

THE IVY GREEN

Oh! a dainty plant is the Ivy green,
That creepeth o'er ruins old!
Of right choice food are his meals, I ween,
In his cell so lone and cold.
The walls must be crumbled, the stones decay'd,
To pleasure his dainty whim;
And the mouldering dust that years have made
Is a merry meal for him.
Creeping where no life is seen,
A rare old plant is the Ivy green.

Fast he stealeth on, though he wears no wings,
And a staunch old heart has he!
How closely he twineth, how tight he clings
To his friend, the huge oak tree!
And slyly he traileth along the ground,
And his leaves he gently waves,
And he joyously twines and hugs around
The rich mould of dead men's graves.
Creeping where no life is seen,
A rare old plant is the Ivy green.

Whole ages have fled and their works decayed,
And nations scatter'd been,
But the stout old Ivy shall never fade
From its hale and hearty green.
The brave old plant in its lonely days
Shall fatten upon the past;
For the stateliest building that man can raise
Is the Ivy's food at last.
Creeping where no life is seen,
A rare old plant is the Ivy green.

—Charles Dickens.

On the Side

THE MAIN QUESTION

Mr. Harvey is back for a talk diplomatic
With President Harding on peace and its goals.
But what we would know in this land democratic,
Is not what the contint needs. That's emphatic.
But do or do not women really have souls?

Perhaps now, dear George, with your wisdom and learning,
You're able to prove that the women do not.
We have quoted your words. The replies have been burning.
For moral support all we cowards are yearning.
It's pleasant to have you right here on the spot.

'Tis a gigantic task and we'll all let George do it,
From whom the voluminous argument rolls.
If you can convince Yankee women, go to it,
Although we believe you will certainly rue it,
If you tell some women I know they lack souls.

All young women entering Russia must, by command of the soviet government, wear woolen underwear to protect them from the rigorous climate. There is one subject the government does not understand and that is women, especially American women, who make it a habit to dress thinly in the winter and wear heavy clothes in the summer. Fur hats for women, for instance, come in style about the middle of July.

Bishop J. S. Flipper said in an address at Atlanta:

"Be sure your sin will find you out. An Atlanta family had a parrot that looked sick, and they sent it downstairs to be treated in the servants' quarters. The parrot remained downstairs several weeks. Then it was brought back, cured, to the drawing room.

"But always, after that sojourn downstairs, the parrot could never hear a bell without exclaiming crossly:

"'Oh, let the devils ring again!'"

LOVE OF FATHERLAND

From "The Lay of the Last Minstrel."

Breathes there the man, with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said,
This is my own, my native land!
Whose heart has ne'er within him burn'd,
As home his footsteps he has turn'd
From wandering on a foreign Strand!
If such there breathe, go, mark him well;
For him no minstrel raptures swell;
High though his titles, proud his name,
Boundless his wealth as wish can claim,
Despite these titles, power and pelf,
The wretch concentred all in self,
Living, shall forfeit fair renown,
And, doubly dying, shall go down
To the vile dust from whence he sprung,
Unwept, unhonor'd and unsung.

—Sir Walter Scott

FOLLIES GIRL GOES BACK TO SCREEN

DOROTHY MACKALL SCORES DISSIPATION TALK

Dorothy Mackaill.

DOROTHY MACKAILL, one of the many pretty Follies girls who have turned from the footlights to the screen, is a young English girl. She was born in England in 1903 and was trained in dancing and singing and started her stage career in the London Hippodrome. Not long after her debute in London she was discovered by Mr. Ziegfeld and put in his "Midnight Frolic."

"There's a lot of rubbish written about Follies girls," according to Miss Mackaill. "As a matter of fact they do not dissipate more than many girls in society and they sleep lots more, for their day really begins after the show at midnight, and unless they have some shopping to do or a rehearsal they sleep all day."

Miss Mackaill played in the Torchy comedies and then Marshall Neilan engaged her to play in "The Lotus Eaters". Her next picture will be the lead in a James Carewe production opposite James Rennie.

ANOTHER COUPLE WILL COME BACK

The news that Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne have signed a contract to appear in a Whitman Bennett production has been received with much interest throughout the country, where this celebrated team of screen lovers has just finished a season with the Keith Vaudeville Company in a sketch written especially for them. It will be interesting to note the reception they get when they come back after their absence of five years.

MRS. ARBUCKLE TO RETURN TO SCREEN

Minta Durfee, in privat life Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle, who is now in New York City, announced recently that she will return to her profession. For four years, Mrs. Arbuckle played leading roles in Keystone Comedies after leaving Ferris Hartman Opera Company. She has appeared in 100 pictures, the last being with Mabel Normand in "Mickey". Mrs. Arbuckle will be remembered as the first actress to play opposite Charlie Chaplin. She says she will devote her time to the stage and screen, as well as write scenarios, several of which are in preparation.

ORPHEUM HAS ATTRACTIVE BILL

Carl Shaw and Lo Lorraine are the youth and several musically inclined gentlemen bring forth the melody in the act which is given that double name and which now draws the most attention at the Orpheum. Carl Shaw is an exceptional juvenile in his various abilities to dance nicely to the seductive strains of the aforementioned musicians. Miss Lorraine does not keep up to the fast pace set by her companion, but does well enough with her endeavors. Harry Faber and Ursa McGowan plan for a lively evening when she walks through murmuring "North, North" in "The Compass." Its just a quarter hour of conversation and a song but they are entertaining in both. Brady and Mahoney capitalized the minimum intelligence which one of the firm can muster in his expressions and answers to make a little comedy called "The Fireman and The Chief." Then they sing a few paragraphs which were popular last evening. Ferguson and Sutherland can move their feet with enough rapidity and ease to be called good dancers. Ethel Dare, famed aviatrix, attempts all sorts of aerial gymnastics which are exhilirating for both spectators and Miss Dare. Rage and Green are expert tumblers in an interesting exhibition of trained clowning.

MRS. FISKE COMING TOMORROW

Viola Dana will be seen for the last times today in the rollicking comedy drama "The Five Dollar Baby." It is an Irvin S. Cobb story of the same name and is a laugh from start to finish.

Mrs. Fiske will impersonate "Paddy," a thoroughly remarkable woman in her new play, "The Dice of the Gods," which comes to the Parkway, tomorrow for matinee and night. Of primary significance because "Paddy" marks the return of Mrs. Fiske to a great emotional role of unplumbed dimensions, to this new drama a notable event in the theatre.

"Take It From Me," coming to the Parkway Monday night in a new play with music, staged by Jos. M. Gaites, introducing the element of newspaper caricaturing into the theatre, since Will B. Johnstone, designer of the book and lyrics, is a cartoonist. Will B. Anderson fused the music to the piece.

HOW HOLLAND IMPERSONATES SHEIK

Though in these days the motion picture producers are given to choosing old men to play elderly roles wherever possible there are times when it is necessary to depend on makeup entirely and a case in point is the remarkable transformation effected by Cecil Holland in the role of an old Sheik in "Burning Sands" a Paramount picture which is now on view at the Majestic theatre.

By means of a peculiar substance which he puts on his face the skin and features seem to shrivel and are seamed with many wrinkles.

Wanda Hawley and Milton Sills are featured in this production.

ARTISTIC SCENES IN TALE OF OMAR

Here are some of the artistic setting which are shown in Guy Bates Post's second film vehicle, "Omar the Tentmaker," which is now playing at the Strand theatre. Richard Walton Tully is the producer of this First National attraction.

A tavern, with bibulous youths roistering in the immemorial manner! The mystic Temple of Zoroaster, its altar looming up in the semi-darkness of the interior, its minarets where the muezzins chant their call to prayer! The gardens of the Governor, with slaves who carry out his lightest wish, for his wish is law! The dungeon cells—"the home of ten thousand shadows"—in which the doomed await their execution, or the far greater dread of torture!

If the legislature can make any impression on the pile of taxes that burdens the people, then it will not have convened in vain. If it can turn the rising tide of taxation to an ebb tide, without permitting the flood to go any higher, then the whole Badger populace will applaud.—Berlin Journal.

Just prior to adjournment of the sessions of the county board of supervisors of Marathon held in Wausau last week, that body went on record as favoring modification of the Volstead prohibition law, the repeal of the Severson act, and made a declaration in favor of light wines and beer. It was a ridiculous, thoughtless, radical and silly thing to do. In the first place—and every member of the county board of supervisors in Marathon should know it—the said board has no more to do with such matters in any event, than has the fire chief of Dallas, Tex. to do with the government building in Mars.—Wausau Record Herald.

Socialists do not sell their birthright for a mess of pottage. This is more than can be said of a political faction in Wisconsin struggling for control. The little coterie of socialists in the Wisconsin Legislature on Wednesday did not sell their birthright for a mess of pottage but took in return for their first variation from their support of their own party a toll—the delivery of the state of Wisconsin to socialism.—Kenosha News.

REFERENCES

Suppose the Lord should say to me, when I get over there:
"Your references I want to see. I hope I'll find them fair.
Where have you lived and worked and played?
Give me the names of those you've known,
Who'll tell the record you have made? I'd mention those I call my own.

I should not give familiar names nor those of persons great,
Nor offer lordly sires and dames my character
to state,
But I should say: "They knew me best—my wife and children three,
To what I was they can attest, go question them of me.

"Send to the little home I tried to keep with mirth aglow,
Better than all the world outside the man I was they know;
Oh Lord, I did not rise to fame; high worth
Thou cannot find,
But I preserved my home from shame, and there they'll call me kind."

When at the last the Lord demands my references from me,
Where all men stand with empty hands to face
eternity,
This I would have as final proof of how my life was spent:
My own to say, "beneath our roof lived laughter and content."

He was an optimist and had just moved into a new home with his wife.

On the north of them wdelt a gas company. Chemicals were made to the east. A glue factory perfumed the south. The west wafted weird soap-boiling effluvia. But bless you, he was an optimist!

"Of course, dear," he murmured, holding his nose, "it is a little trying sometimes. Still, there's an advantage in the arrangement. At least, we don't need to buy a weathercock to tell which way the wind's blowing!"—London Ideas.

She is not fair to outward view,
As many maidens be;
Her loveliness I never knew
Until she smiled on me.
O then I saw her eye was bright,
A well of love, a spring of light.

But now her looks are coy and cold,
To mine they ne'er reply,
And yet I cease not to behold
The love-light in her eye;
Her very frowns are fairer far
Than smiles of other maidens are.

Our Last Word on Health

We medicate, we medicate,
For every ill we medicate;
We break our leg and say: "Oh, Gee!
I'll have to take some boneset tea;"
Or, when our Willie has the croup
We medicate poor Willie's soup;
Instead of eating corn and hay
We swallow pills three times a day;
While, if we'd stop to meditate
We'd hesitate to medicate.
